The Hayes House,

At Kyle, deserves something more than a passing notice. Its construction is due to the enterprise of Col. C. L. Frowzer, of Taylor. It is a spacious two story building, close by the Railroad De pot. The interior is arranged with admirable adaptation to its purpose as a public house. The sitting rooms are convenient and elegant, the dining room spacious and well arranged. Up stairs there are pleaty of eleping rooms, well the vicinity, and again secured him as a ventilated and well turnished. Verandahs or galleries extendaling two sides [crimetly on our Austin list.
